

2012 election results for the Mayor of London and the London Assembly

The 2012 Mayor of London election results

If there are only two candidates, the Mayor of London is elected using the First Past the Post system. The candidate with the most votes wins.

If there are three or more candidates running for Mayor, the Supplementary Vote system is used to ensure the candidate with the broadest amount of support from London is elected. In this system, voters can cast a first and second choice vote.

If a candidate receives more than half of all the first choice votes they are elected. If this does not happen, the top two candidates with the most first choice votes go through to a second round. All other candidates are eliminated, but the second choice votes on their ballot papers are looked at. If they are for either of the top two candidates, these second choices are added to their totals. The candidate with the highest total of first and second choice votes wins. If there is a tie then the Greater London Returning Officer draws lots.

Name	Party	1st choice*	% 1st choice	2nd choice*	Final total
Boris Johnson	Conservative Party	971,931	44.01	82,880	1,054,811
Ken Livingstone	Labour Party	889,918	40.30	102,355	992,273
Jenny Jones	Green Party	98,913	4.48
Brian Paddick	Liberal Democrats	91,774	4.16
Siobhan Benita	Independent	83,914	3.80
Lawrence Webb	UK Independence Party	43,274	1.96
Carlos Cortgla	British National Party	28,751	1.30

* These numbers reflect the number of valid votes and do not include those ballot papers which were spoilt.

2012 Constituency Assembly results

The 14 Constituency Assembly Members are elected using the First Past the Post system, so that the candidate in each constituency with the most votes is elected. If there is a tie, the Constituency Returning Officer draws lots to choose the winner.

2012 London-wide Assembly Member votes

To allocate the London-wide Assembly Member seats, the Modified d'Hondt Formula is used, which takes into account all of the votes cast in the London-wide and Constituency Assembly Member contests. To be included in this calculation, each political party or independent candidate must receive five per cent of the total number of London-wide votes cast, or they are eliminated. The below calculation is then carried out for each party, for each of the 11 seats. The party with the highest result at each round is allocated the seat.

$$\frac{\text{Total number of votes won}}{\text{Seats already won (including constituency seats) + 1}}$$

The parties allocate the seats they have won to the candidates in the order they appear on their nomination list.

Political party	Number of London-wide votes	% of London-wide votes	Included in seat allocation? (Do they have more than 5% of the vote?)	Number of constituency seats won
British National Party	47,024	2.12	✗	0
